

July 13, 2006

Kimberly and Thaddeus Wright
Independent XanGo Distributors

Federal Trades Commission
Re: Business Opportunity Rule R511993

It has come to my attention that the FTC is working to enact new rules and regulations for network and direct sales marketing companies which I feel will be detrimental to my own family's involvement in one of the greatest opportunities we have been given to date. We are a young family built by two recent college graduates, my husband, a graduate of business management, and myself, a graduate of elementary education.

I am currently a stay-at-home mom trying to raise two young children the best way I know how. The best employment my husband could find right out of college to support our family is not allowing him to improve his station within the company no matter how hard he works for them. It has been discouraging and taxing. We have been researching other opportunities since the beginning of his employment with his current company in order to find him a better opportunity. As it is, he is working 13 hour days while only taking home about $24,000. His family never sees him and his company doesn't appreciate all of the hard work he does for them.

To say we were ecstatic when we discovered the XanGo opportunity this past June would be an understatement. This was finally the opportunity that we had been looking for! It required very little money to start up (which was a God-send) and only required a little hard work, determination, and a dream.

Although we are not "seasoned" XanGo distributors, it doesn't take a pro to understand what these new rules would do to our business opportunity. While we understand the thoughts and concern that stand behind these new regulations, I respectfully submit that passing these new rules will quite possibly kill our family's American Dream. I do not mean this to sound overdramatic but I sincerely wish that some other solution could be found regarding this issue, as I do not see how our new business could survive, let alone thrive, with these new rules in place.

I appreciate your steadfast and consistent action to protect the American people, but I do hope you will take my family's story into consideration when you pass or deny this rule. Please find another way to protect the American people while still allowing the "American Dream" to be a possibility for the little people just trying to get a leg up in the world. I appreciate you taking the time to read this.

Thank you.

Kimberly and Thaddeus Wright